The Minister for Western Sydney, Kim Yeadon, will officially launch the Industry Sustainability Initiative (ISI) on Wednesday 16 October at Thales Underwater Systems, Rydalmere.

The ISI is an exciting new initiative developed through the Western Sydney Environment Taskforce to help businesses generate both economic and environmental benefits for their organisation and the region.

The ISI is the first regional industry program of its type in Australia and is of international significance.

The Advanced Manufacturing Centre and the Office of Western Sydney were granted $190,000 by the Environment Protection Authority to extend the ISI Program by establishing three new clusters of 10 Western Sydney businesses.

The Taskforce would welcome your attendance at the Official Launch. If you want more information about the ISI Program and to register for the Launch, contact Michael Kokot (8836.2208) or Lauraine Steward (88362201) at the Office of Western Sydney.
